Introduction “German Global Trade Forum Berlin”

The German Global Trade Forum Berlin is an international network with its head office in Berlin to promote international trade, service, investment and exchange. Being a typical "NGO" the Forum acts as the platform for dialog for private and public institutions in Germany and abroad. Members and national Directors are government appointed trade advisors such as the Honorary Trade Advisors of Thailand to the Royal Ministry of Commerce or similar representatives.

To be successful in building a new business in a foreign culture and economic environment, your company needs partners who are familiar with the markets, people and structures of your destination country. Trustworthy partners are essential for small to medium-sized companies that frequently do not have the resources to research foreign markets on their own.

The worldwide network of German Global Trade Forum Berlin, in cooperation with the national and international agencies, offers your institution or company efficient and reliable assistance in entering foreign markets.

Building high quality networks is crucial to establishing a successful business abroad. We offer our members access to a comprehensive business network in Germany and abroad. Through systematic networking on site, and up-to-date information, we help your company to be prepared for new and changing conditions with other entrepreneurs.

FORUM OBJECTIVES

To create a dedicated and effective forum for the development of International- German trade relations* To provide information of practical relevance for commencement and implementation of business activities world wide* To offer a platform for business relations and cooperation, including networking opportunities* To represent the interests of German or international industry when dealing with the German government or Ministries abroad.
